Framery 2Q – now available in new colors!

Framery 2Q was designed and developed to answer the need for bigger soundproof meeting pods and to complete the Framery offering. Framery 2Q provides a meeting space for a small group without needing a big meeting room.
Now Framery 2Q is available in fourteen new exterior and frame colors to really brighten up offices around the world. Play around with the colors and design your own dream pod on the Framery website: https://configurator.frameryacoustics.com/configurator.

“The design philosophy behind Framery products is simple: every detail has been designed to guarantee the best user experience.”

Happiness creates success. Framery creates Happiness.

Researches confirms that personal productivity drops when there are distractions at the office. It’s been recommended that open plan offices should be complemented with many, easily accessible quiet workspaces. This is about answering the needs for privacy and concentration.
All Framery products are designed to increase effectiveness in an open plan office environment. 50% of people working in open plan offices find the lack of sound privacy the most frustrating aspect of the work environment. Framery pods provides them a place to concentrate and to not disturb colleagues.

About the company

Framery was established in Tampere, Finland in 2010 and all of its products are proudly designed and produced at its Tampere headquarters.
